October 2015

NET Cancer Awareness Day is November 10, 2015

Trey Anastasio, guitarist, composer and vocalist, speaks out about a rare cancer that affected his family, and advocates for more education and awareness of Neuroendocrine Cancer. Trey supports the mission of the Healing NET Foundation to educate and support the medical community at large about NET cancer, and promotes World NET Cancer Awareness Day on November 10, 2015.

Tales from the NANETS Conference

HNF Executive Director Cindy Lovelace and Candice Hallmon, RN

In her application for the grant, Candice indicated she interacts with about 100 NET patients on a regular basis, and she wanted to learn more about the management and surveillance of NET tumors and particularly how the nurse can be supportive in the outpatient setting.

Each HNF grant recipient was asked to write a synopsis of a session at the conference, and what takeaways would help them improve NET patient awareness/care in their community. We will be NET patients have unique stories. Sharing our stories can help other NET patients facing similar struggles.

We encourage you to share your story so we can give hope to all NET patients!

Do you have a fundraising idea in your community?

We have heard from several supporters who are interested in raising monies to support Healing NET Foundation programs. THANK YOU! The ideas range from motorcycle runs to selling jewelry or other items.

If you have an idea and need some help formulating a plan, please reach out and we will help you put your ideas into an action plan. The Healing NET Foundation is a 501c3 charitable organization recognized by the IRS as tax exempt. However, there may be a requirement in your state for any charity to have a state solicitations permit. We are happy to make that application for you, if required.
